GluckWalrath LLP Welcomes Christopher Jones to its Trenton Office

Trenton, NJ (February 11, 2010) -- GluckWalrath LLP welcomes Christopher Jones to its Trenton office as a legislative agent in the Firm's Government Relations and Regulatory Affairs department. Mr. Jones' practice will focus on representing the Firm's clients in legislative initiatives.

"We are excited about the addition of Chris to the Firm. He brings with him a wealth of political depth and experience which will enhance the premier services we have been providing to our government relations clients for years," said Michael H. Gluck, GluckWalrath's managing partner.

Prior to joining the Firm, Mr. Jones worked for the New Jersey General Assembly Majority Office where he focused on matters concerning health care, higher education, tourism and the gaming industry. He assisted in drafting and implementing a package of bills addressing autism, including expanding insurance coverage for necessary treatment and extension of funding for research and services. In addition, Mr. Jones was involved with casino regulatory reform, state college and university restructuring and hospital patient safety measures.

Before joining the Assembly Majority Office, Mr. Jones worked with Congressman Rob Andrews (D-NJ) as the staff point person for the Education and the Workforce Committee. He also worked with then-Senator Jon Corzine, assisting municipalities and constituents of South Jersey in procuring federal aid.

Mr. Jones received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Rowan University in 1996 and a Master of Public Affairs and Politics from the Bloustein School at Rutgers University in 2001, where he was named both a Martin and a Raimondo fellow at the Eagleton Institute of Politics. He resides in Delran Township.
